PROCLAMATION.

THANKSGIVING.

It is right that all Christian nations should practice the Rule of the Universe for their universal goodness to all men.

It is emphatically proper that the people of this country should prize him, for they are favored above all others, in their form of government, devised under God, by the wisdom of their forefathers—in freedom to do all things that are right—in health, peace, prosperity—in a wonderful process of development which has already placed us in the foremost rank of the nations of the world.

The people of Wisconsin have extraordinary reason for thankfulness in the present year. The peaceful laborers of the husbandmen have been blessed in a most remarkable degree, and their barns and storehouses are overflowing with the abundance of the harvest. Surely, "He doth much with the hand, but more with the heart." He has given us a great deal of material wealth, but he has given us even more—confidence, honor, and a spirit of patriotism. The meetings of all classes and professions have been extended. All clergies and professors have pursued their avocations with greater or less measure of success, under the protection of just and equal laws. If difficulties have come upon, or calamities overtaken us, the benign influences of Christ have been with us in the trials and tribulations of the year.

Holding a long-continued fast, in deep perplexity again to invite the people of Wisconsin to the observance of our annual festival of joy and gladness, and I do hereby appoint Tuesday, the 29th day of November, 1860, as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty Ruler of the Universe.

And I command that the people of the State, on that day, laying aside all forms of labor, together in their houses, assemblies, and, in manner and form approved by their constituents, return their thanks to God for His great goodness to us as citizens of a country best, beyond others, with civil and religious liberty, educational institutions, peace and prosperity; and especially for His own saving blessings to us. Let us then, in the House, "Our Elijah," has proved unfaithful to our interests, and we shall have to discharge him without a character.

A Singing Rebuke.

The Charleston Mercury, the object of the Southern Democratic press, in its issue of October 24th, administers the following sharp rebuke to the "Fusionists" and "Union Savers" in New York City, who, having got up a bigot paper to scare one class of voters into the support of their ticket, are trying with their money, to buy up another sort. The Mercury, it will be seen, ridicules the fears, real or affected, of Messrs. Dry Goods, Fusion & Co., as to the durability of the Union:

What's A'Praid?—The merchants of New York have the alarm of the New York "Fusionists" and "Union Savers" to lay off, and driven off, the people of that State from carrying out their political views and sentiments just now in the election of Lincoln. William B. Astor, we are informed, has contributed one million of dollars, and about $100,000 more, to the first half dozen meetings that were held yesterday. This is but a sample of what they are doing. These men really suspect that the South or a small portion of it at least has earned a large share of the political power and influence of the nation.

Are the money men of Gotham given to photos, that they should bleed themselves so freely, and in so hopeless a task, as diverting, by gold and gable, the people of a great free State into a violent outburst of anti-slavery invasions? Are the people of New York so timid, and so profigate in political sentiment, that an attempt to subvert the integrity of the Union is to be met with such a rapid and unanimous assent?

Is it not a fact, that the capacity for self-government—an insult to the cardinal principle of Republican Government, and a horrid slur upon the rural population of the great Empire State? In fact, we are astonished at the boldness to suppose of the durability of the Union.

We presume, however, that these are causus belli, and that the causa is causa.

Speaking with a German (a Democrat) after Mr. Schurz had finished his speech, I asked him how he liked it. He answered us in these words: "It is too smart for us Democrats. I have always supposed I was a Democrat; but I have learned to-day that I am a Republican."

H. LINDEMUTH, of Watertown, made a few remarks after Mr. Schurz, who were received with applause.

At the time Mr. Schurz was speaking in the Church, John Wane, Esq., of Waupaca, addressed a large crowd assembled on the public square. He spoke at some length, confining himself mostly to the history of the Democratic party—comparing the ancient with the modern Democracy.

After Mr. Wane, Hon. Elias Burroughs of Beaver Dam, addressed the crowd in his usual money manner.

The crowd in the evening was so large that they were compelled to divide up, some going to the Church and others to Union Hall. Both were crowded full, it being previously announced that Mr. Somers would address them in both places. Mr. S. was invited to the Church by the Widespread Awakers, but being weary and exhausted he made but a short speech. He then interested the Hon. Elias Burroughs in the assembly, who made an able and logical speech contrasting himself to Lovett's "great principle." After Mr. B. had concluded his remarks, Hon. Waldo Lyon, of Wausau, was loudly called for. He came forward and addressed them for a few moments, and was then received with a hearty round of applause.

THE MIGHTY HEALER.

LET NOT DISEASE, WITH ITS FEAR, drag you down, until the cold hand of death hurts us to an untimely grave. Share of the feeling of despair and helplessness, so liable to come over us in sickness. The power of health is given us, but not the knowledge of how to use it to the best advantage; but the most brilliant of these entertainments was given upon a beautiful wooded island in the Bayonne River.

Here was erected a large circular saloon,
and through the different changes of the hours, when the sun was at his zenith, and when he had descended into the earth, the saloon was handsomely decorated and surrounded by trees, and from the trees and within each other was a table that would seat twelve persons.

In the centre of the saloon was placed the throne for the King, the two Queens and the higher dignitaries of the court. The musicians were playing their instruments, and had not seen, and not heard, the sound of trumpets, drums, and cymbals.

The royal table was served by the Queen's maid of honor, dressed as wood nymphs and maidens, while the edibles and liquors were brought in by servants in the guise of satyrs. While the sports were in progress, the Queen's courtiers, dressed in the national customs, attended in their national costumes, accompanied by musicians performing characteristic airs, and executed national dances. As the royal party and guests arose from the tables, the courtiers followed, and the astonished guests at first marvelled, and then wondered, what had become of the scene of revelry.

At the end of the hour, the Queen's courtiers, who had been dancing, and
had not seen, and not heard, the sound of trumpets, drums, and cymbals.
